Quarterly Meeting Program featuring

Author: Julia Gimbel

Student, Sailor, Skipper, Survivor How WWII Transformed the Lives of Ordinary Americans

...goes underneath the often-told battle stories to describe the life experiences shared by millions of Americans serving during WWII. Using her late father's journal as the framework, researcher and author Julia Gimbel fleshes out what it was like to go through accelerated officer training, set sail, and live life at sea during the tumultuous war years. Catch a whiff of the spirit and determination of WWII as you step in the shoes of one sailor and by extension, millions more. Learn how young Americans navigated military life and connected with their new brothers over the simple pleasure of a meal or a smoke, all while keeping their eye on the goal of returning home to the life they put on hold.

MESSAGE ... FROM THE PRESIDENT

Dear OCHS Friends,

We're back! The past two challenging years are in the history books and the OCHS is ready to make some history in 2022 with a full schedule of events. OCHS Volunteers have "checked off" many items on our long to do list. Please join us at our events and visit the Village on weekends and see the progress for yourself! Highlights include completion of Village Hall, Train Depot Restoration and Maronde House repairs. Major items still on the "to do" list include remodeling the Draeger House/Gift Shop into our new Village Entrance and fundraising for the restoration of the Village Caboose.

Your help is needed. Please consider signing up to volunteer at an event (or two). Your help is needed now more than ever to keep this organization running. It is easy to say "no" and not get involved, but even a few hours of volunteer help goes a long way to make the job easier. Just let us know "how much" or "how little" you can help. Your donation of your time is important to preserving Ozaukee History. As the old saying goes... "many hands make light work". We will be using "Sign Up Genius" for ease in volunteering. If you do not use a computer, we can sign up for you.

At this point in time, we are looking for a Volunteer Coordinator. Tom Oliver has served as our coordinator for many years and is stepping down from that role. He will still be actively volunteering for the OCHS in other capacities. If you are interested in volunteering, contact Becky Miller who is helping out on an interim basis until we find someone. Other open positions include School Tour Coordinator, Food Service Coordinator and Board Member. If you might be interested in serving on the Board of Directors, please contact me to get the process started.

Lastly, after more than a decade, I am stepping down as President of the OCHS effective July 1. It has been an honor to serve for so long in this position, but it is time to hand off these duties. We've accomplished a lot in the last decade due to our group of strong volunteers. My goal (don't laugh) when I started was to get "modern restroom facilities" at the Village... and that has been done! This organization is very important to me and I still plan to be a very active volunteer. Thank you for your friendships and support!

Looking forward to seeing you all soon!

FROM THE OCHS ARCHIVES ...A Fascinating Story

By: OCHS Archivists—Jane Butz and Chris Fricke

As with so many donations received by the Ozaukee Historical Society, there comes not only a valued document or artifact but also a fascinating story. Such is the case of a simple folding clothes hanger engraved with the family name of Lauterbach. Pictured here is Archive Volunteer, Laurie Bell who received this hanger from her neighbor Kathy Loppnow.

Justus Lauterbach immigrated from Germany in 1856. He was a professional tailor trained while still in Germany and performed his trade in Milwaukee. Facing limited opportunities for suitable employment and wages in Wisconsin he often traveled to Louisiana and Arkansas hoping to find a better a prospect for his skill as a tailor. During one of his stints in the South, Fort Sumter was bombarded and the Civil War broke out. During this period Lauterbach had established his own business in Napoleon Arkansas. He was hired by a local merchant who had a contract with the Confederacy to make uniforms. Shortly thereafter conscription was enacted forcing all male residents including Lauterbach to be assigned to the Confederate Army.

With loyalties to the North and his desire to return to his wife and family in Wisconsin, Lauterbach began his plan to escape conscription and secretly travel through the Confederacy without detection. Not having been paid by the merchant for over 100 uniforms, he appealed for the remuneration of his services to finance his trip home. Almost the entire payment was made in silver coins of quarter and half dollars. This required Lauterbach to fashion canvas belts to store and hide his coins during his travel to the North.

The night before he was to report to his assigned regiment, Lauterbach closed his store and hid under the building. The following night he was able to leave his concealment and use back streets and alleys to make his way to a steamer which passage had been secured earlier by a German friend. He was able to avoid detection and slip by guards to board the Hiawatha Steamer. Once on board, he found his state room and limited his exposure until arriving in St. Louis which had recently been secured by the Union forces. Eventually he made his way to Illinois and on to Milwaukee where he continued his career as a tailor.

Being influenced by President Lincoln's appeal for volunteers, Lauterbach enlisted and was assigned to Company C of the 24th Wisconsin. He attained the rank of sergeant and participated in the battles of Mission Ridge, the Knoxville and Atlanta campaigns. After a bout with typhoid, he once again joined the regiment in the Battle of Nashville serving as General Sheridan's personal tailor and was close to the General as his troops pursued General Lee.

Upon his release from duty, Lauterbach moved his family to Cedarburg and established a haberdashery and tailoring services in 1865. His family continued this business until 1984. The building at W62N553 Washington Avenue now houses Lillies, owned by Jim and Karen Lillie.

To explore more of the Lauterbach family and other fascinating stories of early merchants of the county, please visit the Hazel Wirth Archive Research Center, N57W6406 Center Street in Cedarburg, Wisconsin.

Meet OCHS Archives Volunteer, Laurie Bell with the Lauterbach folding clothes hanger received from her neighbor, Kathy Loppnow. This small donated item holds a huge amount of OCHS history.

MISSION

The OCHS seeks to preserve, advance, and disseminate knowledge of the history and heritage of Ozaukee County through historic preservation, education, and programming. We are a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization of almost all volunteers pursuing our Mission through the sharing of Stony Hill School, Ozaukee County Pioneer Village and the Hazel Wirth Archives & Research Center.

WHAT WE DO

For over 50 years, the Ozaukee County Historical Society has developed and maintained the Ozaukee County Pioneer Village and the county archival records which are available at the Hazel Wirth Archives and Research Center, N57W6406 Center St., Cedarburg. Researchers are invited to use these county records that are updated as materials are made available. Stony Hill School, the original birthplace of National Flag Day, was acquired in 1977, making a one room school experience available to students, along with an annual ceremony on National Flag Day held the Sunday before June 14th of each year.

Henhouse Prowlers

BLUEGRASS AT THE VILLAGE-Ozaukee County Pioneer Village-Sun, August 14, 2022

The OCHS is excited to announce this year's bluegrass lineup including-Genesee Ridge, The Milbillies, Pickin' Up Speed, Chicken Wire Empire and the featured band, Henhouse Prowlers. The Henhouse Prowlers have traveled the world as the "Ambassadors of Bluegrass". They have a wonderful teaching outreach program where they share their music with many impoverished nations, most recently Uganda and Pakistan. The Henhouse Prowlers provide workshops, school programs and learn about ancient instruments from the places they visit. Playing bluegrass music for 17 years, they have released numerous CDs with their signature harmonies and classic tradition.

As usual, the event includes a wide variety of food, desserts and beverages including a beer and wine tent. A live auction will be held of items provided by local area businesses.
